CAPE MALAY COOKING EXPERIENCE (HALF DAY)

Cooking is Art, as many chefs around the world claim. Bo-Kaap “High Cape” is a beautiful colourful community that was established in 1944 by former slaves to create homes for themselves as they never owned any property during the colonial times of the Dutch and the British.

If you like spices and food with robust flavours, join this cooking experience at one of the Bo-Kaap residences at their homes and get to learn and make Cape Malay traditional food and eat what you made. Experience is never to be missed.

XHOSA TRADITIONAL COOKING EXPERIENCE (HALF DAY)

The South African way of cooking it's absolutely one of the best in the world, as we mix ingredients that one will never think can go together. Xhosa traditional cuisine is one of the South African foods that are full of proteins and vitamins.

Townships are the communities or suburbs where "Brown" and mixed-race people live, and cultural people tend to cook and eat at home most of the time rather than spend money to eat at restaurants, only on special occasions like birthdays or anniversary celebrations. The cooking workshop will take place in the Langa or Gugulethu community at one of the homes.

MARIMBA AND GUMBOOTS DANCE EXPERIENCE (HALF DAY)

Can one imagine life with music? Imagine living in a world where sound doesn't exist, wow that would be incredibly awful right, isn't it? What we call African Contemporary music or simply called African-beat. It's our sound, the only sound that separates us from the rest of the world as South Africans on African soil.

We get to be hosted by very talented musicians, sharing some incredible songs accompanied by Marimba and drums. What is music without a dance? we get to experience gumboot dance. This dance was created in the mines of Johannesburg during the gold rush by the Brown people. This dance is what we call "Body Percussion" with the incredible sound from the gumboots and the clapping of hands.
