SOWETO POLITICAL WALKING EXPERIENCE (HALF DAY)

Soweto, urban complex in Gauteng province, South Africa. Originally set aside by the South African white government for residence by Blacks, it adjoins the city of Johannesburg on the southwest; its name is an acronym derived from South-Western Townships. It is the country's largest Black urban complex.

The townships constituting Soweto grew out of shantytowns and slums that arose with the arrival of Black laborers from rural areas, particularly in the period between World Wars I and II. Growth was haphazard, and the emerging township lacked municipal services and government. Slum clearance and permanent housing programs began there in 1948, at which time local as well as national authority was established.
